A Word from Our Director of Missions When was the last time you...encouraged your Pastor?

Some years ago Focus on the Family estimated that “80% of pastors and their spouses were discouraged.” Pastors deal with many challenging issues. Like all of us, they deal with challenges in their family and ministry lives. There are no perfect pastors just as there are no perfect people. The greatest pastors who have ever lived were not perfect. Only Jesus is perfect.

What have you done recently to encourage your pastor? Here are some ways that you can be a positive encourager to both your pastor and his family.

- Pray daily for them.
- Take time to share positive, encouraging words with them.
- Give support by your faithful attendance in worship, ministry service and being faithful in supporting God's work financially.
- Be open to change which focuses on doing the work of the Great Commission in the best ways possible.
- Brainstorm ways that you can show kindness.
- Never participate in negative gossip.
- Thank him for his acts of service and kindness.
- Provide a way for him to participate in opportunities such as a pastor's conference or spiritual retreat.
- Show a special recognition such as Pastor's Appreciation Month in October.

Our association will be sharing a special appreciation to our pastors in October.
